Andrew Hewitt is an inspiring performer and educator. As well as being a well known and well respected artist in his own right, his commitment to making music accessible through his programs and workshops is impressive.

Here in Australia he is a community leader and through his workshops, performances and on and off line networks, he inspires many people to start, to explore and to continue their musical journeys.

I would have no hesitation recommending him as a high level educator, facilitator and performer with a growing following.
